Lions can be found in Africa. They move around in small groups.

A family of lions is called a pride.

The male lion is big and strong. He is so strong that he is called the 'King of the Jungle'. He has a brown mane around his neck. The lioness does not have a mane. She is smaller than the lion but she does most of the hunting. She kills deer and zebras. She takes good care of her cubs. The lioness teaches them to hunt when they are young.

Lions are shy animals. They usually stay away from people.

Once upon a time, there was a king who did not like to bathe. He could go on for weeks without a bath! Everyone in the castle was not willing to go near him. It was not because the king was fierce or cruel. It was because he was too dirty and smelly most of the time!

The king loved his family very much but even they were frightened to go near him. Whenever the king saw his wife or children, he would always want to hug and kiss them. Unfortunately, they would always run away from him. Soon, the king felt very sad and lonely.

The king was also unhappy as he did not like to see people around him covering their noses and standing far away from him when they talked to him.

Finally, the king could not take it anymore. He decided to take a good long bath. The servants scrubbed him for three hours using nice-smelling soap. He was finally clean and smelled good.

After that, the king called his family to him and told them that he would bathe every day. They hugged him happily.

One Sunday morning, Father and Mother took Jane and Jill to the Night Safari. At first, Jane did not want to go. She had been to the Singapore Zoo many times before. She thought that it would be boring. Mother told Jane that she would see many more interesting animals there. After listening to Mother, Jane agreed to go to the Night Safari with the family.

Mother was right! Jane saw many animals that she had not seen before and learnt many facts about them. Jane learnt that zebra foals start to run about an hour after they are born. They are food to many animals such as cheetahs and lions. Zebras also move in groups to stay safe. This makes it harder for their enemies to attack them.

Read this passage carefully. Then answer the questions that follow.

A colony of frogs was hopping through the woods. Two of them, Bouncy and Bumpy, fell into a deep pit. When the other frogs saw how deep the pit was, they frowned. They told Bouncy and Bumpy they would never get out.

The two frogs refused to believe them. They tried very hard to jump out of it. The other frogs kept telling them to stop jumping. Soon, Bumpy was tired and gave up.

Bouncy continued to jump as hard as he could. Once again, the other frogs yelled at him to stop jumping. However, he jumped even harder and finally made it out of the pit!

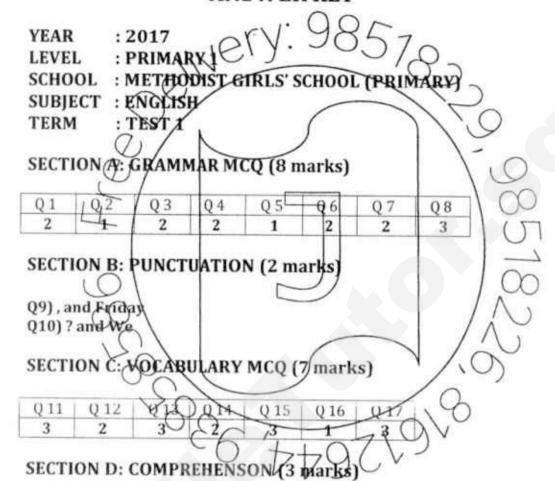

Bouncy's friends were amazed that he got out and wanted to know how he did it. He told his friends that he was deaf and could not hear all that they were trying to tell him. All this while, he had thought that they were cheering him!

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions.

Jerry and Peter lived in a small village. Jerry's small brick house was just next to Peter's wooden house. The two men were not friendly with each other. They often quarrelled with each other over small matters.

One day, Jerry's pet goat went into Peter's garden and ate up all his plants and vegetables. Peter was very angry. He caught Jerry's goat and cooked mutton soup with it.

On another day, while Peter was away for work, his house caught fire. Jerry saw smoke and flames coming out of the windows. He wanted to teach Peter a lesson for eating his goat. He decided to keep quiet. He did not try to put out the fire or call for help. Instead, he went to visit a friend after watching the fire for a few minutes. He felt that his house was safe, since it was built using a stronger material.

When Jerry returned, he was horrified. Not only was Peter's house completely destroyed, so was his.

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions.

A mouse was having a very bad time. She could not find any food although she looked everywhere in the farmer's house. After a while, she grew very thin.

At last, the mouse found a basket that was filled with corn in the storehouse. There was a small hole at the bottom of the basket. She squeezed through the hole to get inside the basket. She began to eat the corn as she was just too hungry! She ate and ate till she grew very fat. Soon, she had enough of the corn and decided to stop eating. She wanted to climb out of the basket. She tried to squeeze through the hole but she could not.

"Help! How do I get out?" she yelled. Just then, a rat came along and he heard the mouse.

"Mouse," said the rat, "if you want to get out of the basket, you must wait till you are as thin as you were when you went in "

Section D: Comprehension (10 marks) Read the passage carefully and answer the questions.

Once, there lived a white cow, a black cow and a brown cow in a field. They stayed close to one another and never wandered far. They were safe from attackers.

One day, a lion came to the field from the jungle. It looked hungrily at the three cows. The lion had not eaten for many days. It could not attack the three cows at the same time. The lion thought of a plan. It decided to attack the cows one by one.

The lion made friends with the brown cow. Soon, they became good friends. The other cows were upset with the brown cow.

The white cow tried to talk to the lion to go back to the jungle. Instead of talking to the white cow, the lion ate it. When the black cow could not find the white cow, it went up the hill to look for the lion. The lion then ate the black cow.

In the end, the lion also ate his good friend, the brown cow.

Kimi lived with her mother in a small house. Kimi's father had gone fishing for many days and had not come back. Kimi decided to set out to look, her father.

After walking for half a day, Kimi rested by a river. Suddenly, she saw a fish flipping around as it was out of the water. She quickly picked it up and dropped it into the river.

"Thank you. I'll return your kindness one day," said the fish.

"How can a tiny fish help me?" laughed Kimi and went on her way.

Soon after, Kimi came to the sea. She looked all around for a boat but there was none in sight. Tired and sad, she sat on the shore and cried.

"Hello!" called a voice nearby, and the fish swam up. "I can help you," said the fish. "My friend, the whale, can take you over."

A whale magically appeared on the sea and floated towards Kimi. Kimi got onto it and apologised to the fish for what she had said earlier. Kimi and the whale then went together to look for her father.

Multiple-Choice and Open-ended Questions (5 x 2 marks)

Read the following passage carefully.

In Peter's bedroom, there were many new toys placed neatly on the shelves. One night, Peter played with them and went to bed without tidying up his room.

The next morning, Peter found that all the toys had been put back in their proper place. He was puzzled.

The following day, the exact same thing happened again. When Peter went to get one of his toys, it jumped out of his hands and said, "I don't want to play with you!" He could not believe his eyes.

"You always leave us on the floor after playing. We are sad that we have to climb back up the shelf on our own. We won't play with you until you promise to put us back before you go to bed," said a teddy bear.

Peter finally understood how badly he had treated his toys. Feeling sorry, he asked for their forgiveness. From that day, he always put them back nicely before he went to bed.

Long ago, there lived an old couple in a village in Japan. Every day, the old man went into the forest to gather firewood so that his wife could cook their dinner.

One day, the old man did not return at the usual time. As the sky grew darker, his wife began to worry. She decided to go out to look for him. When she opened the door, a young man walked in.

"Who are you?" she cried out.

"Don't be silly," the young man replied. "I'm your husband."

"You are certainly not! My husband is an old man!" she exclaimed.

"But I am your husband," the young man insisted. "Sit down, and I'll tell you what had happened."

The man explained that he had come across a beautiful pool in the forest. He decided to take a rest there. The water looked so cool and inviting that he drank some of it. As he was leaving, he saw his own reflection in the water and realised that he had become young again.

"You must tell me where this pool is!" said the old lady with a smile.

Multiple-Choice and Open-ended Questions (5 x 2 marks)

Read the following passage carefully.

It was a dark and stormy night. A traveller reached an inn. As it was very late at night, he found the door locked. He knocked on the door.

The inn-keeper said, "The door cannot be opened unless you have a silver key with you."

The traveller understood what he meant by the silver key. He immediately slipped a silver coin under the door. Then, the door opened right after.

As soon as the traveller got in, he said to the inn-keeper, "I have left my box outside. Please bring it in for me." As the inn-keeper 10 went out to bring the box in for the traveller, the traveller closed the door behind him. He wanted to teach the inn-keeper a lesson.

The inn-keeper asked him to open the door. Now, the traveller replied from inside the inn, "A silver key is needed to open the door."

Soon, the silver coin was pushed again under the door and the 15 dishonest man was let in. The traveller was happy that he got his silver coin back.

Section C: Comprehension (5 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the following questions. Your answers must be based on the passage.

Long ago, there were many hardworking donkeys in a field. They had no time to play or rest.

Two donkeys were unhappy about working so hard. One day, they went to see a wise old man in his hut and told him about their unhappiness.

"I have an idea," said the wise old man. Taking out his pots of paint, he painted the donkeys white. Then, he painted black stripes over their white bodies.

"Now, you don't look like donkeys," said the wise old man. "I will call you something else — zebras!" The zebras returned to the field and lay on the grass. Soon, the rest of the donkeys saw them. They asked the zebras where they had come from. When the donkeys found out what had happened, they went to look for the wise old man.

"We want to be zebras too!" they cried. The old man could not paint all the donkeys fast enough. As a result, the donkeys grew restless and knocked over the pots of paint. In the end, there was no paint left. Feeling disappointed, the donkeys had to return to the field to work.

In a pond near the jungle, there lived Freddy. He loved to sing. Every day, he would croak from morning to evening.

"What a horrible voice! You can't sing at all!" the birds laughed at his songs, for they were flat and had no rhythm or tune. However, the frog would not stop singing. He would sing even louder. The fishes swam in the murky waters while all the animals fled.

One day, a hungry crocodile wandered near the pond, waiting to pounce on anything that moved. As usual, the animals were drinking water near the pond. Freddy spotted the crocodile and thought to himself, "How shall I alert the animals? Their lives are in danger!" Then, he filled his lungs and began to sing as loudly as he could. The animals once again fled and the crocodile nearly went deaf with Freddy's continuous croaking. It moved quickly to other ponds to look for food.

From that day, the animals applauded whenever the frog sang. They nicknamed him "the alarming siren", for which he was happy to receive.

Bala went into the kitchen to make a sandwich while his mother was heating some milk in a pot for breakfast. Bala was curious to see what his mother was preparing. When his mother left the kitchen to answer a phone call, he stretched his hand to pull the handle of the pot. Some of the hot boiling milk spilled over. Bala quickly jumped out of the way but it was too late.

"Ouch! My foot!" Bala cried in pain.

Bala's mother came running in and she was shocked to see what had happened. At once, she carried Bala to the sink and put his foot under running water. Bala felt much better.

Bala was sure that his mother would scold him but she did not. Instead, she said to him gently, "I've told you many times not to touch the pots on the stove. You are lucky that the hot milk didn't spill onto your body. I hope you have learnt your lesson."

Mark and James, who lived in a faraway village, went jungle trekking. While they were climbing up the steep slope, they heard a frightening growl.

"Help!" they cried and immediately tried to climb up a tree in front of them. Mark managed to do so but James kept sliding down the huge slippery trunk.

"Hey! Lend me a hand and pull me up, will you?" pleaded James.

"No! My life will be in danger if I help you," said Mark as he continued to climb higher up the tree. James felt disheartened with Mark's reply. The grizzly animal was getting closer to James.

"Thud!" James fell flat to the ground. "A bear will not touch a dead man," James thought as he remembered what his teacher had said. James pretended to be dead as the animal nuzzled and smelled him with its large nose. It then turned away thinking that James was really dead.

It was Sam's seventh birthday. His sisters, Susan and Alice, were helping their mother to bake a cake for the birthday party.

Mother asked Sam if he would like a chocolate, vanilla or strawberry cake. Sam could not decide. So, he asked for a vanilla cake with chocolate icing and fresh strawberries on top.

Mother plugged in the electric mixer. Then, she put some butter, three eggs and a cup of sugar into it. Alice took the flour from the cupboard and the milk from the refrigerator.

When all the ingredients were well mixed, they baked the cake mixture in the oven. Soon, the delicious smell of the cake filled the whole kitchen. Mother took it out of the oven and let it cool.
